

Getting around in Antwerp

Antwerp is a pocket-sized metropolis: most attractions, conference centers and hotels are close together. Walking is the best way to experience and explore the city. Cycling is also possible, you can rent a bike or use the popular bicycle-sharing system Velo. Spread across the city, you can also use other shared mobility like (electric) scooters.

Looking for other means of transportation? The buses, premetro's and trams of De Lijn will take you wherever you want to go. Taking a taxi is also a safe and affordable way to reach your destination. Do you want to get to the other side of the river or to the port? Take the Waterbus: a great combination of sightseeing and transport.

Tip: check the route planner of Smart Ways to Antwerp for all accessibility information and smart alternatives for getting around in the city.
